Study at an innovative university that's as bold and ambitious as you are

Be part of a thriving, collaborative and diverse global student community that spans continents.

Experience state-of-the-art campus facilities in the heart of London, where the bustling global city of business, technology and culture acts as an extension of your classroom.

Immerse yourself in a vibrant and close-knit learning community where everyone has the opportunity to participate and excel.

Encounter new perspectives and develop new skills through your subject, the people you meet, and the opportunities on campus and beyond.

At Northeastern University London, you can do all this and more.

DID YOU KNOW?

With 2,247 students, a 14:1 student to academic ratio, and class sizes of around 40 students or fewer, we're set up to provide every student with personal support and guidance, within a collaborative and intimate learning environment.

Real-world experience

Learning through experience is core to our approach. Throughout your studies, you'll have unparalleled opportunities to work on challenges that have real-life impact and elevate your classroom learning.

And our close partnerships with organisations from startups to multinationals will give you a head start in your career, offering experience that will help you stand out from the pack.

Customise your degree

Many of our degree programmes are customisable, so you can explore your passions and build a degree that fits your goals. With the option to choose electives from various subject areas you can develop skills across disciplines, giving you a real advantage in an ever-changing job market.

Global community

As part of Northeastern University's network of 13 university campuses across the USA, Canada and London, we offer a truly global mindset. You'll find opportunities to broaden your horizons through overseas study, and through a worldwide network of researchers and industry partners that will enrich your experience.

Support at every step

We keep our class sizes small, so you're never just another face in the crowd. You'll receive personal attention from our dedicated teaching and student support staff, as well as academic and careers advisers who are committed to helping you succeed.

Learning through experience

Develop your skills and understanding by tackling real-world challenges, inside and outside the classroom.

You'll experience academic teaching with practical application, from site visits and talks from guest speakers in your field, to exploring real-life case studies and participating in research projects directed by leading academics.

And you'll apply the skills and theory you're learning to solve real problems set by external organisations, from established global companies to challenger brands, making a tangible impact on their work and decision-making.

In the process, you'll gain the skills you need for the future, such as teamwork, creative thinking and adaptability – all while building your network, your confidence and your career prospects.

Professional work placements

Our cooperative work placements – known as “co-ops” – offer a unique opportunity to explore potential careers and apply your classroom learning to real-world needs.

During a co-op, you'll immerse yourself with one of our partner organisations over a period of months, working with mentors who are fully invested in your success. You'll be supported to find the opportunities that are right for you, and to make the most of your experience.

You can see which degree programmes are eligible for co-op work placements on page 26.

Impact challenges & industry bootcamps

Our impact challenges and industry bootcamps are just two examples of the many ways you'll be able to engage in hands-on experience.

Through impact challenges, you'll develop evidence-informed solutions to complex real-world problems. And bootcamps offer you focused training delivered or certified by industry partners.

DID YOU KNOW?

Our Startup Hub is host to over 20 promising new companies where you can do short-term placements and gain valuable experience.

Your global gateway

Be part of a unique global campus network, linking staff and students across campuses in London, the USA and Canada.

This international reach provides Northeastern University London students with cross-border connections that spark new ideas, open new doors and enrich our research and study programmes.

Through our network of campuses, partnerships and alumni, you'll be immersed in rigorous academic study and real-world experience on a global stage, providing all the opportunities you need to develop as a global citizen and make a positive impact on the world.

* Most of our degree programmes offer a study abroad option – refer to the table on page 26 to check which programmes offer this opportunity.

Study in the USA*

When you enrol on one of our degree programmes, you can choose to spend a semester at Northeastern University's Boston campus for a once-in-a-lifetime experience.

You'll make new connections and get a taste of student life overseas, opening your eyes to new ways of living, learning and teaching, and the vibrant atmosphere of a US university campus.

You'll follow a US curriculum, earning credits that will count towards your Northeastern University London degree, so you'll still graduate on time.

DID YOU KNOW?

Northeastern University's network of 12 campuses and institutes across the USA and Canada provides students and graduates with international networking and further study opportunities.

Boston campus

Double degrees

Many of our degree programmes offer you the opportunity to earn a double degree – and the right to work in both the USA and UK – with just one extra year of study.

At the end of your UK degree, you will have the option to:

- continue with a fourth undergraduate year at Northeastern's Boston campus, earning a US-validated degree in the process, or
- enrol on a master's degree straight after graduating, studying at one of Northeastern's campuses in the USA or Canada.

“ Studying and living in the USA has allowed me to immerse myself in a new culture and country, expand my global perspective, and adapt to new ways of learning that have deepened my understanding. One of the most exciting opportunities has been collaborating with postgraduate students on a research paper. This allowed me to learn about a new field and develop research skills that I will definitely use when I return to London. Beyond the academics, I have enjoyed exploring Boston, meeting new people and getting involved with clubs and societies. There is always something to do on campus!

Beth F, Politics and Data Science student

Your degree, your way

Create a study programme that's as unique as you are, and fit for an ever-changing world.

We don't believe in rigid subject boundaries, which is why we offer the opportunity to explore a wide range of courses outside your degree subject. With dozens of electives to choose from, you're invited to design your personal academic journey – one that matches your interests and your aspirations for the future.

By studying across disciplines, you can gain valuable experience for a world where the ability to adapt and apply different ways of thinking is highly prized. Or you might delve deeper into your degree subject, setting yourself up for the career you've always dreamed of.

Whatever you choose, your academic adviser will be there to guide you, helping you to explore the options that are best suited to your goals and ambitions.

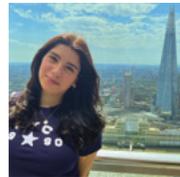

I've gained a more in-depth understanding of my discipline and been able to explore my passion for the subject. But also to develop my transferable skills through extracurricular activities.

Piranas J, Politics & International Relations student

Studying at Northeastern University London has been great so far. I like the small class sizes as I am able to build a relationship with my professors and seek guidance at any point. All classes are engaging and course material is always available and varied. Furthermore, the legal careers adviser has helped me polish my CV and prepare for applications to internships and vacation schemes. Another great thing is the campus location. Being in the heart of London opens up a world of opportunity as we are close to Parliament, the UK Supreme Court, and the world's best law firms.

ONE

DID YOU KNOW?

London has been ranked as the best city in the world for students for the 6th year in a row (QS Best Student Cities 2025), scoring highly on its diverse student population, friendliness, sustainability, affordability and employment opportunities.

Your campus

Devon House

With its riverside setting at St Katharine Docks on London's only leisure marina, Devon House is a contemporary and tranquil oasis where you can study in inspiring surroundings.

Yet just a few minutes walk away, you'll find some of the city's most popular historic sites, including the Tower of London and Tower Bridge.

With high-tech classrooms, quiet study zones, seminar and tutorial rooms, meeting pods, recreational space plus tea and coffee points, Devon House has everything you'll need to thrive.

Your campus

One Portsoken

Set on the edge of the financial district, One Portsoken offers a 360-degree view of the London skyline and many iconic landmarks.

As our newest building, One Portsoken is set to expand further in 2025, with two new floors boasting world-class labs, workshops and a makerspace.

Our modern facilities offer everything you'll need, with quiet study zones, meeting pods, seminar and tutorial rooms, high-tech classrooms plus tea and coffee points.

London living

It's hard to imagine a more exciting place to be a student than London, one of the most dynamic and diverse cities in the world.

Considered by many to be the beating heart of Europe, the capital is a booming tech and finance hub, and a cultural hotspot where centuries of rich history meet the cutting-edge ideas of the future.

Discover the latest band, cheer on premier league footballers, or soak up art and history at one of London's many theatres, galleries, and museums... whatever your passion, there's always something happening.

And with leading employers within easy reach, there are unlimited opportunities to gain real-world experience and make connections that will set you up for a bright future.

“ I love how modern and nice the campus is. It's perfectly placed for access to central London, and its position right on the river provides the most beautiful, relaxing views to study.

Ella R, student

You can expect a university experience that's fun, exciting, and filled with new discoveries.

DID YOU KNOW?

Our students are known as "huskies" after the university mascot, a Siberian Husky. You'll see references to huskies in our sports teams, our student activities and socials, even our one-to-one meetings with students are known as "Husky Chats".

Student community

Life at Northeastern University London is about more than gaining an exceptional education. It's also about discovering a place where you can grow, make new connections, and create memories that will last a lifetime.

You'll be part of a truly diverse and lively community where everyone is different, and everyone belongs. With this vibrant mix of people from different nationalities, backgrounds and cultures, you can expect a university experience that's fun, exciting, and filled with new discoveries.

There are plenty of activities to dive into, so whatever gets you excited, there's a welcoming community for you.

“ There are endless opportunities to get involved. I'm currently part of six clubs, including being vice president of a society, a student ambassador, and a student representative. If a club doesn't exist, it's easy to start your own – just like I did.

Tasneem T, Business student

Events

You'll find a busy calendar of events happening across our campus buildings, in our student accommodation, and in and around London's myriad of cultural hotspots. From themed social events and cultural celebrations to creative writing open mics, crafting sessions and gaming nights, there's always something new to explore. And you can check out stimulating workshops and talks on a broad range of topics including science, philosophy, and more.

Clubs and societies

Meet like-minded people through student-run clubs and societies, where you can develop meaningful relationships with others who share your interests. Whether you're a Swiftie or a film buff, there's something for everyone, with a huge range of active communities bringing students together through the Students' Union to enjoy common interests and collaborate on projects.

If you're a sports enthusiast, you'll have the option to join our student-led sports communities. Take your pick from a host of activities ranging from tennis to volleyball, football to bouldering, running to basketball, and more.

London offers countless opportunities to get involved in team sports at every level. From hockey and football to ultimate frisbee and tag rugby, you'll be spoilt for choice.

Where you'll live

Finding the right place to call home is a must, and our accommodation team is here to support you.

Whether you need information about housing options, advice on locations to suit your budget, or help understanding a rental contract, we've got you covered.

Halls of residence

Living in one of our partnered halls is a great way to meet other students and get your bearings in a new city. You'll have support from your onsite residence life co-ordinator, and with social activities such as movie nights and community dinners on offer, you'll quickly feel right at home.

Our recommended halls are close to campus, with cosy rooms to wind down and relax in, as well as spacious communal areas to hang out with your friends. As a first-year student, your application will be given priority (subject to demand).

Private rentals

If you prefer to find your own space, you can choose to rent privately with friends or on your own. Our accommodation webpage has lots of tips for finding your perfect home and navigating the London rental market.

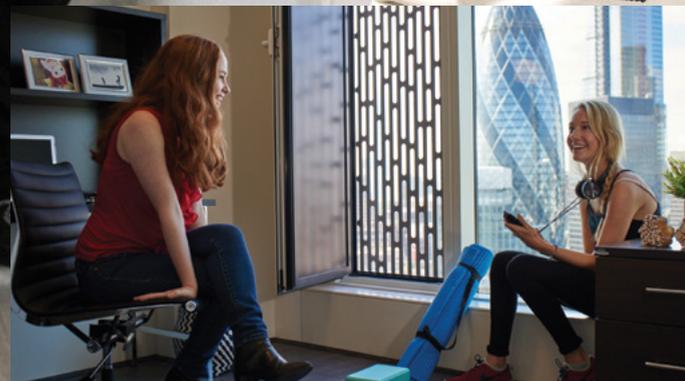

Living at home

If it's an option for you, living at home can help you save money and stay close to family support. And with plenty of opportunities to get involved in social events throughout the year, you won't be missing out.

We're here to help

You'll find up to date information on accommodation application deadlines on our website, and the team is always on hand to answer any questions you might have.

DID YOU KNOW?

At our residence halls, every student receives a bedding and kitchen pack with everything you need to settle in.

How we support you

Setting off for university is one of the most exciting things you'll ever do – but we know it can be a daunting prospect, too.

You're much more likely to succeed if you feel confident about where to go when you need help or advice. That's why we're here to help you every step of the way, with support in the way you need it.

Your welfare is our top priority, and our student support services can advise you on maintaining a healthy balance between your studies and your personal wellbeing.

“There is great support available. From academic advising to residence life coordinators, Northeastern University London has provided me support with any question in any scope, and I know that there is always someone that I can turn to if I need help.

Annika B, Psychology student

Your designated academic adviser can help you adapt to university studies, supporting with organisation, time management and study skills, as well as guiding you when it comes to choosing electives.

In fact, we offer support for every aspect of university life, including:

- academic and study support
- disability and learning support
- careers advice
- mental health and wellbeing
- financial advice
- safeguarding and welfare

So you never need to worry, because you'll know you can get the right help at the right time, anytime.

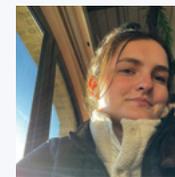

Your career starts here

We know that your undergraduate degree is the first step towards your future career.

So from your first day with us, we're here to help you identify your goals, guide you on your chosen path and ensure you're ready for the day after graduation.

Your dedicated careers counsellor will work with you to understand your career aspirations – and if you're not sure what they are yet, they'll help you explore your options.

“Working with an external partner was an invaluable way to gain experience with hands-on learning. Meeting with and talking to industry professionals was also a great way to start building connections within the field.

Mackenzie G, Politics and International Relations student

You'll be matched with a highly experienced careers adviser specialising in your chosen sector. With expertise in fields including the creative arts and media to government, law, and finance, your adviser will support you to:

- understand the experience and skills you need to stand out as a candidate
- identify prospective employers in your chosen field, and develop your networking skills
- draft CVs and cover letters that tell a strong story and make an impression

As well as receiving one-to-one support, you'll attend a programme of lectures and career clinics on topics that include self-branding, applications, interviews, and networking, with guest speakers in a range of fields.

Our vast global alumni network and our strong partnerships with businesses give you the opportunity to build relationships with potential employers long before you graduate. And of course, our focus on learning through experience means you'll have examples of real-world impact to talk about – giving you a crucial edge in interviews.

95% of our 2021 graduates are employed or enrolled in postgraduate studies.

Entry requirements

Our typical entry requirements are:

A-levels

- our typical offer is BBB-ABB

IB

- our typical offer is 32-34 points overall including TOK and the Extended Essay, or alternatively 6,6,5 in Higher Level subjects with an overall pass in the IB Diploma

American High School Diploma

Our typical offer is an unweighted GPA of 3.3/4.0 plus a form of standardised testing. E.g. ACT, SAT or AP examinations.

We also accept equivalent UK and international qualifications – for details, visit nulondon.ac.uk/entry-requirements

We review applications holistically considering your interest in the subject, academic performance, references, background and potential. If you are predicted to achieve below our typical offer, we would still like to hear from you, and we may invite you to an interview to learn more about you.

How to apply

1. Choose your degree programme

Find your programme from the list on page 26, and visit our website for detailed information on each degree programme.

2. Submit your application

You can apply to us in one of three ways:

UCAS

Select us as one of your five choices through UCAS. Our institution code is N53 and the institution name is Northeastern University London.

Apply direct

If you are only applying to Northeastern University London, you can apply directly via nulondon.ac.uk. We accept direct applications on a rolling basis, so you can apply before or after the UCAS deadline.

CommonApp

If you are an international student, you can also apply via the CommonApp.

3. Application review

Our admissions team carefully consider every application we receive. They'll look at your predicted or achieved grades, your school performance, and your personal circumstances and background.

You may be invited to an interview so we can get to know more about you, which will take place via Zoom.

4. Offers

Our admissions team will let you know whether we plan to make you an offer. If you do receive an offer from us, we will then send you a formal offer pack.

nulondon.ac.uk/undergraduate-admissions

“The structure of the lectures is very engaging. You can learn from the lecturer and interact with them when needed, as there are no more than 30 students in the same lecture.”

Widening participation

We welcome students from all backgrounds, whatever their circumstances.

But we know not everyone is starting from the same place, so if you're facing extra barriers on your academic journey, we're here to help you succeed.

Contextual offers

Contextual offers are how we make sure talented students from all walks of life have a fair shot at securing a place with us. This means we look at the whole picture – not just your predicted grades, but your background, your school performance and any other information that helps to show your potential.

We place a particular focus on prospective students from widening participation groups such as those who:

- attend a school on our widening participation list
- have spent time in care
- are estranged from their family
- are a young adult carer
- receive, or have received, free school meals
- are a forced migrant, refugee or asylum seeker

If you meet certain criteria, we may offer you a place with more flexible entry requirements.

Support before you start university

For anyone, starting university can be exciting and daunting in equal measure. You're bound to have lots of questions, and perhaps some worries, especially if your situation is complex. We're here to help remove the stress.

If you're from a widening participation background, when we make you an offer, our widening participation team will be in touch to provide help. They'll be able to advise on applying for student finance and bursaries, accommodation, student life and more.

Bursaries

We want all our students to be able to focus on their studies and student life, without worrying about money. That's why we offer means-tested bursaries to help with living costs, accommodation or tuition fees. To find out more, visit nulondon.ac.uk/home-fees

To find out more about contextual offers and travel support visit: nulondon.ac.uk/widening-participation

DID YOU KNOW?

We can provide financial support to cover the cost of travel to attend our on-campus events.

Fees and funding

Tuition fees

In 2025/26 our undergraduate tuition fees for UK students were £9,535 per year. These are reviewed annually. Fees for UK and international students for 2026/27 entry will be shown on the individual degree programme pages on our website as soon as they are confirmed.

Tuition fee loans

Eligible students may receive a government-funded loan to cover tuition fees, which isn't repaid until they are in employment and reach the income threshold. To find out more, visit gov.uk/student-finance

Maintenance loans

If you're resident and settled in England, you may be eligible for a maintenance loan from the Student Loans Company. The amount you can apply for will depend on your household income. For further details, visit gov.uk/student-finance

Bursaries

If you're paying Home student tuition fees, you may be able to apply for a means-tested bursary. Bursaries can be used to help with living costs, to pay for accommodation, or to help with tuition fees.

EU students

If you're an EU, EEA or Swiss citizen, you may be considered a Home student for tuition fees if:

- you have settled status, Indefinite Leave to Remain or permanent residency, and
- you have been living in the UK or Islands for the three years immediately before you start your course (if you were not staying mainly for education).

Students from Ireland have Home fee status in the UK.

We're always happy to help with any questions – just contact us on undergraduate.study@nulondon.ac.uk nulondon.ac.uk/undergraduate-fees

All information is correct at the time of publication, but may be subject to changes in UK government funding policy.

International students

One of the things that makes Northeastern University London so special is our diverse community of students from around the world.

The variety of experiences and perspectives they bring make our campus a fantastic place to expand your horizons. And as a thriving global city, London is the perfect place to call home as you embark on your studies.

But we know there's a lot to think about when you're applying to study abroad. Our friendly team is here to help make the process easy, supporting you both before you get to the UK and after you arrive.

“As a mixed-nationality student in the United Kingdom, I am drawn to the exceptional opportunity to immerse myself in various professional cultures and interact with people from diverse backgrounds, so I can prepare to enter our internationally connected world.”

Elena M, Business student

Student visas

If you're an international student, you may need a visa to study in the UK. Northeastern University London is licensed by the government to sponsor your visa application, and our dedicated visa team is here to help guide you through the process.

English language requirements

If English is not your native language, you'll need to show you're proficient in English to study with us. You can find more information on the test results we'll accept at nulondon.ac.uk/entry-requirements
